The Heart Throb

A playful and spiritual homage to the Heart and the delightful flirtations thereof... in a time when we need it sooooo much! An intimate yet open space to connect both synchronously and asynchronously. Take a load off and deeply connect with the heart. Write a note to a crush. Feel your heart beat. Events in large spaces like the PNE Forum (or the desert) require a delineation of smaller, more intimate spaces to foster deeper connection amongst participants...the quality of connection that we truly crave. The Heart Throb will meet this need in a light-hearted, yet deeply spiritual way. #GVIASGrantRecipient

The Really Lost Penguins

Berzerkatroid Fire Dragon

My Berzerkatroid Dragon has been in action at many local festivals. In its basic interactive form a person sits on the saddle and pulls a lever to actuate propane fire bursting from the dragon's jaws. In the full scale version 8 musical poofers on the wings are actuated by a remote toy piano player. The dragon is approximately 17 feet long, 10 feet high and the body is about 7 feet wide. It weighs approximately 550 lb. It needs a footprint of 20 x 15 ft to include a temporary fence. The propane flame effect as originally created produces a 4 ft burst of fire from the mouth of the dragon, actuated by a lever pulled by a person sitting on the dragon pilot seat. In 2023, I mounted four propane jets on each of the two wings, operated remotely by a participant playing a simple keyboard. Each propane jet produces a specific note, so the dragon is a fascinating interactive musical instrument.

BooMBoX RoBoT

The Boombox Robot is a pre-programmed Animatronic audio-visually orchestrated experience. It is a sculptural mash up of emblematic vintage boomboxes stacked up in such a way to form the archetypal robot. The B.B.R. is illuminated by LEDS hooked up to play in unison with audio soundtrack. In previous iterations the Boombox Robot has been a audio-visually stunning work but still a static sculpture. This year the vision is to make the Boombox Robot through the use of hydraulic pistons, actuators, servos, and onbord computers to actually make the Boombox Robot actually move! Whether it be popping and locking, waving, and/or do the electric boogaloo!

CERN in the Forest

The CERN in the Forest Science Hub is a collection of interactive science projects to tickle the brain and give us a chance to learn something new about the physics of the world around us! Check out projects like the levitating water fountain, plasma sphere, playtronica chladni plate, and more!

Deferrent Circles

Both a kinetic sculpture and interactive public seating, featuring 2 seven foot wide circular spinning couches. Upholstered in a patchwork of unique fabrics and nestled under a large canopy filled with color changing lights. It can be a dynamic heart pounding giggle fest or a cozy comfortable conversation pit. Come and be moved.

Fire Orchids

It might be cold and rainy, but at least we can burn this time of year. Come warm up by the fire. Maybe roast a marshmallow. Just don't light your fun fur.

Glowup Darkwads! 2X

A self contained station for painting faces with UV reactive makeup, that also glows in the dark. What's better than one UV makeup table? Not having to wait, or crowd around a single mirror and tiny table. By making a second table, we can double the rate at which people paint their faces and smooth out the demand to faces painted curve through this single night event, increasing the key business metrics of faces painted per hour AND total number of faces painted.

Fresh from the Dusty fun of What If, Luminosity is the work of Vancouver artist Michael Goudge. Backlit abstract art, with a projector displaying a slowly morphing naturalistic image onto the painting, this will be a slowly transforming focal point in a chaotic and fun evening. Both meditative and powerful, the viewer is drawn in and captivated by the mandala which slowly morphs and changes over time.

Flashing LED Lights: Illuminating the experience with vibrant colors. Stationary Rocking Mode: Later transformed into a fixed rocking toy for added stability and enjoyment. #GVIASGrantRecipient

Prosthesis: The Anti-Robot

World's Largest Human-Piloted Exo-Suit Prosthesis is a 4,000 kg, 100% human-controlled, electric-powered mech designed not to replace people, but to amplify human skill. There are no computers, no automation, no balance assist: the machine only moves as well as its pilot does. It's a sport, not a ride. Standing 4 m tall with four giant legs, Prosthesis turns full-body motion into massive mechanical strength, proving that advanced technology can still be deeply physical, human, and thrilling. Built in 2016 by Jonathan Tippet at the eatART Labs in Vancouver, with many years of volunteer support. Prosthesis has appeared at CES, Burning Man, Maker Faire, and holds the Guinness World Record for the largest tetrapod exoskeleton. #GVIASGrantRecipient
